

WE ARE ALL WORKERS

The student who goes to school and works two jobs is a worker. The professor that works 80 hours a week without benefits and is trying to pay back their student loans is a worker. The janitor and cafeteria employee are workers. We are all workers, despite our differences in where we work and what we do. We all work, not because we want to, but because in this society selling our labor, time, and energy for money is the only way to survive. The President of the CSU is not a worker - he is a manager and a boss. Those that run and control the CSU system are not workers - they are bureaucrats. They are part of the class in society who own and control and give orders. We do not have the same interests as them.

Our enemies have the police, money, and power on their side. We only have each other and our ability to resist.

THE RICH ARE ALL OUR ENEMIES
