

Sunday Morning at the Niebyl-Proctor Library presents a talk on:

China Mieville's October, The Story of the Russian Revolution

Science fiction writer, China Mieville, has just published October (Verso Press: London, New York, 2017), a story of the 1917 Russian Revolution from February to October. Unusually, October does not make the revolution a background for an adventure or love story. The revolution itself, contradictory as it was, is the main character of the book. As with any look at history, the point is not to re-live the past, but to see what can we learn from it. What do we learn from 1917 for today?

★
HISTORY!

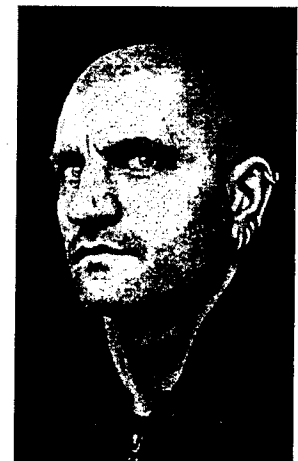

Where: Niebyl-Proctor Library,
6501 Telegraph Ave., Oakland

When: Sunday, November 5,
10:30 am- 12:30 pm

★
Politics!!

Guy Fawkes Day!

★
SCIENCE FICTION!!!